Citation: [Identification of Item], Robert (Bob) Casey, Harris County Judge Records, Harris County Archives, Houston, Texas.

Creator Sketch:

Robert Randolph (Bob) Casey was born on July 27, 1915, in Joplin, Missouri, to Samuel and Mabel Caywood Casey. As a teenager he moved with his parents to Houston, Texas, and graduated from San Jacinto High School in 1930. In 1934 he received an undergraduate degree from the University of Houston. He married Hazel M. Brann in 1935. The couple had eight children. In 1940 he earned his Juris Doctor from the South Texas College of Law. Casey was admitted to the bar in 1940 and set up a private practice in Alvin, Texas, and served as city attorney in 1942 and 1943.

In 1943 Casey returned to Houston as an assistant district attorney in Harris County in charge of the civil department. In 1948 Casey earned a seat in the Texas House of Representatives and served in the regular and special sessions of the fifty-first legislature. Casey chose not to run for re-election in 1950, instead he successfully ran for the office of Harris County Judge serving from 1951-1958. During his administration Casey was involved in the construction of the Washburn Tunnel, Harris County Psychiatric Ward, Juvenile Detention Ward, and the Harris County Criminal Courthouse and Jail building.

Casey was elected to the United States House of Representatives in 1958 in the newly created 22nd District, which consisted of the south-central portion of the Houston–Sugar Land–Baytown metropolitan area. Casey was a member of the House Committee on Government Reform, the Committee on the Post Office and the Civil Service, and the Committee on Science and Astronautics. In 1962 the federal courthouse in Houston was named for him. On January 22, 1976, he was appointed to the Federal Maritime Commission by President Gerald R. Ford. After his commission he returned to private practice. Robert Randolph (Bob) Casey died on April 17, 1986.

Collection Summary:

Subject Files (19445 - 1959) and Tubercular Case Files (1956 – 1958) document the activities and responsibilities of Harris County Judge Robert (Bob) Casey. The records include minutes, reports, correspondence, memorandums, printed materials, manuals, budgets, maps, building plans, newspaper clippings, and photographs.

Archivist's Note:

On May 25, 1975, Chase Untermeyer of Judge Jon Lindsay's office donated 25 cubic feet of county judge records including those of Bob Casey and Bill Elliott to the Houston Metropolitan Research Center. A volunteer at the HMRC partially processed the records, disrupting the original order. The remaining records were placed in county storage. In May of 2007 the HMRC returned the donated records to the custody of the Harris County Archives.

The collection was processed using minimal processing standards. The records of Judge Casey and Judge Elliott were separated whenever possible. The original order was maintained in the records received from the Harris County Records Center. Multiple copies were removed, mold damaged records were reformatted, and records were refoldered when necessary and rehoused in acid free boxes. The Harris County Archives maintained the order of the records as received from the HMRC.

The inventory is at folder level.

Because the collections may have been comingled at some level, be sure to also check the William M. (Bill) Elliott Records Finding Aid.
